SMALL BOY PROBABLY RIGHT

At Least, It's a Good Guess That Uncle George Was All Records for Sprinting.

Uncle George had been abroad for three months, and the amount of adventure he had crowded into the time was surprising. "There's nothing like travel for developing coolness and presence of mind," he was saying, "there's nothing like travel for developing coolness and presence of mind."

One day I was walking along a road on the outskirts of Cairo when, a little way ahead, I heard a cry of agony. "It was a very narrow street, and suddenly a camel came tearing round the corner, pursuing a native. Its open jaws were terrifying. Had I never been out of my own back garden, I might have lost my head and done something silly. As it was I—I can guess what you did, uncle," said a small nephew.

"Well, what do you think I did, my boy?"

"A hundred yards in nine seconds!"

PAY TRIBUTE TO SEAGULLS

Mormons Honor Birds That Saved Their Crop From the Devastations of Crickets.

A notable monument stands in the Mormon temple grounds in Salt Lake City in honor of the birds that saved the early settlers from threatened starvation in 1848. It is a pillar about 100 feet high surmounted by a bronze seagull. At its base are inscriptions detailing the reason for its erection with illustrations by Mahouri Young, the Utah sculptor.

This pioneer trekked across the plains into Salt Lake valley in 1847. Brigham Young stipulated that there should be intensive cultivation of the land. Crops were sown and the farmers looked for a bountiful harvest the next year. Then crickets in huge armies swooped down upon the crops. The farmers tried to eliminate the pest without success. Transportation at the time was difficult and means to obtain food from distant points were limited. The situation looked critical.

When, practically every one had given up hope of saving any part of the crops, the seagulls, termed by old Mormons as the "messengers from heaven," appeared. They did not touch the grain but were seen to pick up the crickets, and in a short time had rid the fields of the pest. There are no records to show from whence the birds came.

The seagull is Utah's sacred bird. It is unlawful to kill it. Many of the people of this state hold it in affectionate memory and during the summer thousands give their bread to the birds that may be seen in large numbers at Salt Lake, a resort a few miles from Salt Lake City on the Great Salt Lake.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Master William Armstrong was host of a pretty party Saturday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Armstrong, on South Main street, the occasion being in celebration of his seventh birthday.

The lawn was transformed into a merry playground where various children games were enjoyed. Fifty guests attended.

BRIDGE PARTY.

Miss Anne Johnston entertained the members of her bridge club Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. J. O. Johnston, on Zettler street.

Those playing were Mesdames Bruce Oliff, Edwin Groover, J. W. Johnston, G. J. Mays, Frank Bogle, James Dixon, Harvey Brannen, Laurie McLeod, Misses Sybil Williams, Mary Lou Lester, Mary Lee Jones, Louise Foy, Anne Johnston, and Mrs. J. I. Johnston.

DOUBLE WEDDING.

A double wedding of interest was that of Miss Nancy Rites to Mr. C. T. Motes, of the Emmitt neighborhood, and Miss Eunice Hendley, of Emmitt, to Mr. Harry Lee, of Grimsbach.

The double ceremony was read by the Rev. T. J. Cobb, Sunday afternoon, at his home on South Main street.

Matched in Peculiar Fashion.

A Nova Scotia reader of a Canadian newspaper, living in Pictou county, writes that they have four chicks which were hatched without a hen or incubator. The eggs were laid in a haymow and the hay dumped on top of them which, with its natural heat and the hot weather, hatched the chicks. They are very sturdy and contented and do not miss a mother. The same reader has a turkey hen that has just hatched its second brood of 12 chicks. The first brood was hatched in June.

Growth of Human Hair.

The average growth of hair in a vigorous and healthy person is approximately one inch per month. If a man has his hair cut twelve times in a year the barber has cut during that time nearly fifteen miles of hair from his head.

HOW THE CROP REPORT IS MADE

STRICT SECRECY OBSERVED UNTIL THE GOVERNMENT IS READY TO ANNOUNCE THEM.

The time is 2:15 p. m.; the place, the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. In an anteroom several men are standing around a table with one hand upon it, holding a large sheet of paper. The quarter hour strikes. There is a race for the door. A moment more and the telephone wires into virtually every city and town in the United States are ringing with the message of estimated crop conditions. At the last meeting of the General Assembly of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, made up of delegates from the principal countries of the world, it was freely conceded that the United States Department of Agriculture has developed the most complete and accurate system of agricultural statistics ever devised. The work of crop estimating is so systematized and safeguarded that no one in or out of the department can know what a given crop report will be until the estimate is completed a few minutes before it is released, and in that short interval locked doors and disconnected telephones prevent anyone from obtaining advance information.

There are approximately 220,000 voluntary crop reporters located in all parts of the United States. A trained statistician or field agent is also placed in each state or group of similar states and supervises the work of gathering statistics in the territory under his charge. At the end of each month each field agent tabulates the crop information received from his reporters, averages and summarizes the data, and reports the result to the department of agriculture at Washington.

Local reporters in every township or small civil unit in every county in the United States report direct to the department every month crop conditions under their observation. Each county, also, is represented by a county reporter, who reports his personal observations, the reports of neighbors and others, and information received by interviews and over the telephone.

The monthly reports cover acreage, condition, yield, total production, stocks on farms, progress of farm work, wages, supply or deficiency of farm labor, fertilizers and seeds. These reports are made for about 60 crops, which represent about 95 per cent of the total agricultural production in the United States.

The reports of field agents on the speculative crops are mailed direct to the secretary of agriculture in special envelopes. These are separated from other mail in the Washington post office and are delivered by messenger to the secretary or his first assistant, who has the key. The reports remain locked in the safe until the morning of crop report day. The returns on speculative crops from the voluntary reporters come direct to the bureau of markets and crop estimates and are tabulated on separate sheets for each crop.

On the evening before crop report day all telephones are disconnected. The next morning all doors are locked, and guards are stationed at the outer doors to prevent anyone entering or leaving when the crop reporting board is in session. The sealed reports of field agents and crop specialists in the custody of the secretary are turned over to the chief of the bureau, and the crop reporting board begins its work. The board is composed of the associate chief of the bureau of markets and crop estimates, three of his most experienced assistants, and usually one or more field agents.

Since the inception of the crop estimating work of the United States department of agriculture there has been but one instance where an employee made an attempt to furnish advance crop information to special interests. That employee was prosecuted. Any officer or employee who gives out any information in advance of publication, or who speculates in any produce of that soil, is subject, under a criminal statute, to a fine of $10,000 or imprisonment for 10 years or both. An officer or employee who knowingly compiles or issues any false statistics is subject to a fine of $5,000 or imprisonment of five years or both.

CONFEDERATE BILL GETS YOUNG NEGRO IN BAD

Leon Joice, a negro boy well known about town, drew a fine of $25 with an alternative of three months in the changing, when he was convicted in city court Tuesday of passing a Confederate $5-bill.

The transaction occurred at Barker's restaurant early in the summer. Joice presented the worthless bill to Mrs. Barker in payment for a 10-cent lunch, receiving back $4.90 in change. Mrs. Barker suspected the bill was worthless shortly after taking it in hand, and her son went in search of the negro. When the boy saw him coming, he ran. When overtaken he disgorged the $4.90 in change but did not disgorge the 10-cent lunch.

In court Tuesday it was shown that Joice had previously presented the bill at another place for a similar purchase. He contended in his defense that the bill had been given him by another boy, and that he did not know it was worthless.

A. & M. TEAM WINS FIRST BASKETBALL GAME

The First District Agricultural school boys won the first game Saturday, when they went to Waynesboro and defeated the Waynesboro Hi girls on their court.

The game was slow in the first half because the Aggies had made a long road trip and had started after only about one-half hour's rest. In the second half both teams showed more vigor, and the game became a contest. The Waynesboro girls played an excellent brand of ball, the Aggies scored nine points to their opponents two. This game was the first real game for the team. The Waynesboro team had played a small school the week before, but the game amounted to only a practice game, and the Aggies were playing their first. This perhaps accounts partially for the low score. But the real reason was that the two teams were pretty well matched. The Waynesboro lassies had the breaks of the first half to their credit, but were clearly outplayed the second half.

While the stars for Waynesboro were C. Taylor at forward and Neil Hillhouse at center, the whole team did well, but showed lack of training in passing and dribbling. The Aggies were all about evenly matched for honors, and their team work was outstanding feature of the game. Those who deserve special mention are A. Lee at center, Captain Snooks at guard, and Mitcham and Harville at forward. Hulsey played a good game the first half, and though having had his finger broken the first few minutes of play, she played the half well.

The two teams met again the latter part of January on the Aggie's court and another hot contest is promised.

Coach Pope is putting his girls through hard practice before each game, and although almost all material is inexperienced, he hopes to build up a machine that will make a creditable showing for the Agricultural school. The first game showed evidence of his work, and as the season advances the team will develop until the school will boast one of the best teams in its history.

The list of the game Saturday was as follows:

AGGIES

COTTON GROWERS MEET TO HEAR STRONG TALK

An audience which filled the court house to its limit was present yesterday afternoon to hear the address of C. O. Moser, secretary of the American Cotton Growers' Co-operative Exchange, discussing the movement now under way looking to the organization of the cotton growers.

Mr. Moser, a business man from Dallas, Texas, is thoroughly conversant with the proposition, and made a strong appeal in behalf of the movement.

An organization committee was placed in the field in the county early last summer and more than four thousand bales have already been pledged for the organization in Bulloch. The best farmers of the county are heartily in favor of the plan, and there is not a shadow of doubt that Bulloch will be represented in the state-wide organization.

STOCK BEING SOLD IN LOCAL CREAMERY

Steps have been taken toward organizing a company for the installation of a creamery in Statesboro at an early date.

The movement was begun recently by the Statesboro Advertising Club. After investigating the proposition it was decided to organize a stock company and stock is now being subscribed.

Arthur Bunce, W. G. Raines and Chas. E. Cone have the matter in hand, and Mr. Bunce will probably have charge of the plant after it is installed. It is proposed to operate in connection with the Statesboro Provision Company, using the cold storage rooms and machinery in use at that plant.

FORDHAM STABS STEPPSON'S IN FAMILY DISTURBANCE

J. I. Fordham, a farmer living near Register, stabbed his two stepsons, youths by the name of Brown, aged sixteen and eighteen years, at the home Tuesday afternoon. One of the boys was cut in several places about the throat and chest and is said to be in a dangerous condition. The other escaped with a slight stab in the breast.

To a reporter today Mr. Fordham stated that he was attacked by one of the boys and knocked down by a blow across the head with a shotgun. He rose, but was again attacked by the other. The first boy got out of reach but the other grappled with him and the stabbing occurred. No arrests had been made at the time Mr. Fordham was in town.

WHITE BOYS CHARGED WITH WRECKING AUTO

Willie Edensfield and Groover Kennedy, white boys, were brought to jail last night by Deputy Sheriff Tillman charged with wrecking an automobile driven by a young Mr. Graham, near Stillson Tuesday night. A telephone wire had been placed across the road in such a way that Mr. Graham drove into it without observing it. The top of his car was torn off and he narrowly escaped serious injury.

A colored man nearby stated that he saw the two white boys place the wire across the road just before the accident.

WORK PROGRESSING ON NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

Work begun scarcely a month ago on the new high school building, is progressing at a rapid rate and the present outlook is that the building will be ready for occupancy in the summer. The brick work has about reached the floor of the second story, and no time is being lost in pushing ahead. The building is located on the lot just in the rear and slightly to the right of the old school building and faces Grady street. It will be three stories and will have every modern convenience for school purposes.

SEDATE MR. WATSON IN SLAPPING MOOD

DIGNIFIED SENATOR DISPLEASED WITH LOOK ON FACE OF ARMY OFFICER.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Threats by Senator Watson, democrat, Georgia, to slap the face of an army officer sitting within touch of his elbow threw the meeting of the senate committee investigating charges that American soldiers had been illegally hanged in France into an uproar today and brought quick demand from Chairman Brandegee for a sergeant at arms to prevent any physical clash. For a moment the utmost confusion prevailed. Above the din of shuffling feet as some women hurried toward the door, the voice of the chairman in ardent tones, commanded the Georgia senator to sit down, or retire from the room. Banging the table with his bare knuckles, the chairman soon restored a semblance of order, but there were many heated exchanges before the meeting broke up until tomorrow afternoon.

Major George W. Cocheu, attached to the general staff, was the officer on whom Senator Watson launched his verbal attack. It happened near the close of a brief, but turbulent meeting at which Senator Watson's charges that the committee "at secret session had prejudged" the case was characterized by Senator Shields, democrat, Tennessee, a member of the committee, as untrue, and wholly without foundation.

The senator's attack on Major Cocheu hit the committee like a crack of lightning. There had been no intimation that anything of the kind was impending. Major Cocheu, sitting by the side of Senator Watson, looked at the senator with a look of incredulity. "These statements as reported in the press account of what Senator Watson said, I have held no communication with Senator Watson except by letter, a copy of which I enclose."

Suddenly swinging on his feet and shaking his right hand within two feet of the senator's face, the senator, his voice pitched high, exclaimed, "for two pennies I'd slap your jaws."

Instantly, Chairman Brandegee was on his feet, calling for a sergeant at arms to protect the officer from an "insult." Then declaring that he himself had been insulted, Senator Watson announced that he would return to the meeting.

Taking hold of the situation, Senator Shields declared the committee desired to proceed in order and suggested to Senator Watson that he had not been insulted.

"We want you to conduct yourself here in the same manner you want others to conduct themselves toward you," said Senator Shields. "An insult can be given by looks," Senator Watson shot back, wheeling quickly again to face the officer. "If he looks at me again that way I'll slap his face. I won't sit here and be bullied by these officers—by this bull-jawed brute."

Major Cocheu looked straight ahead at the senator as Chairman Brandegee endeavored to get the proceedings within orderly senate bounds. After repeating his command that the senator sit down or leave, Chairman Brandegee, and Senator Watson had a fiery exchange as to just what had been promised in keeping officers out of the room while any of the latter's witnesses were testifying.

Finally, the chairman shouted to the Georgia senator, asking if he wanted the officers sent away. He was being informed that he did, they were told to get out.

After that things settled down a bit. Smiles came back to Senator Watson's face as he explained that he wanted to beg the pardon of the committee, if he had acted in an unbecomingly manner. He added, however, that the officers, sitting there and gazing at him "in an insolent manner," had aroused his "southern blood."

The committee later decided to hear some army officers tomorrow and then adjourned the open session to a closed session in the morning. The brick work has about reached the floor of the second story, and no time is being lost in pushing ahead. The building is located on the lot just in the rear and slightly to the right of the old school building and faces Grady street. It will be three stories and will have every modern convenience for school purposes.

STATE CAN NOW PAY ITS DEBTS

SCHOOL TEACHERS AND SOLDIERS WILL BE FIRST TO GET MONEY.

Atlanta, Dec. 9.—To those who are familiar with the manner in which Governor Thomas W. Hardwick has engineered the matter of negotiating discount of five years of the rentals from the W. & A. Railroad, under the emergency special finance act of the legislature, the fact that an offer was made to take the entire issue of nearly three millions of dollars of the state's papers at less than 6 per cent interest, is considered not only highly gratifying but especially creditable to the governor.

The last issue of state paper approached a sum as large as this—$2,700,000—for which bids were advertised. The state advance of seven per cent. Subsequently that negotiation has been rebanded by Governor Hardwick until the final batch of that paper for 1921 was floated at 7 per cent and at that time the governor made the declaration that the paper to be secured by the W. & A. rental would be discounted very much below that figure, and it has. In fact, the award made today is the lowest interest rate the state has obtained in discounted paper since prior to the war.

The entire issue of $2,700,000 was taken by the Citizens and Southern Bank, Atlanta branch, at a rate of 5.95 discount, the negotiations being handled for that institution by Col. W. W. Banks, vice-president, who was formerly of Tifton. The transaction carries significance not only from the standpoint of the state's credit, but in the fact that the state and local banking institutions has financed the proposition. Through the deal being handled within the state it will be possible, according to announcement from the governor's office, to get the money not only into the state treasury, but actually into the hands of the pensioners, for whose special benefit the deal was put through, within 15 days, or before Christmas.

Governor Hardwick made the statement today that it was especially desired by him that this could be done and while he has believed that effort would be successful, he is highly gratified that it has so worked out.

Under the negotiations as concluded, the state will make payment on the loan in the order in which the lessees of the railroad property pay their contracted rentals; that is, payments will be made by the state at the rate of $45,000 each month.

TEXAS ASSOCIATION IS IN MARKETING BUSINESS

BRINGING ITS MEMBERS A PROF-IT OF FIVE TO FIFTEEN DOL-LARS A BALE.

The Texas Cotton Growers' Association, organized under the California plan, and with its more than 600-000 bale sign-up, the biggest co-operative marketing association for farmers now operating in the world, is saving according to the report of its officials, and the price quotations on its sales to date, from five to fifteen dollars per bale for its members at an operating cost of one dollar per bale.

These figures have been established by a comparison of the prices paid by the customers of the Texas association at its sampling room in Dallas, and the prices paid by the buyers and their agents, to independent farmers at local markets throughout Texas.

The reasons for the variations between the five and fifteen dollar a bale, is that the difference is much greater upon high grade cotton than upon low grade cotton, and the local markets themselves show vastly different points at the same time.

Some of this difference is due to transportation charges. The association cotton has already arrived at a compress or shipping point when it is sold, and the independent cotton has
not. But this does not account for all the difference, and the amount that must be charged to transportation charges is more than taken care of by the difference in the grades on which the Texas association cotton is accepted from the association, and the grades which are given by buyers
to independent farmers.

There is no way to under-grade the Texas association's cotton. They do their own grading. Local buyers, even when they are honest, must give themselves the benefit of the doubt as to grade when dealing with the farmer.

The real place where the saving of five to fifteen dollars per bale comes from, lies in the fact that the association has not only greatly reduced the cost of getting cotton to acceptable markets, for the mills and the big exporters, but, by reason of its tremendous handling in big lots of absolutely correctly graded cotton, it is saving the mills and exporters who buy

from it, not only a vast amount of expense, but all kinds of risk.

A great exporter receiving an order from Liverpool, for example, can go today to the Texas association's sampling room in Dallas, and fill an order for several thousand bales, in absolutely even running lots, grade and quality guaranteed, by an hour's examination and conversation; whereas, under the old system, he not only had to pay the expenses and the profits of a horde of his own employees and local buyers, trying to gather that cotton from a hundred different points all over the country, but he had, in addition, to pay less on the average than it was worth in order to protect himself from the risk of getting grades and staples that did not fit into the lot that he wanted, besides the bother and trouble of inspecting and assembling these lots once he got them.

The Texas system alone, then, according to these figures, is saving the member farmers of the Texas association, who average about 18 bales to the man, an average of nearly $200 a year by the merits of the system of operation alone, and without even counting the effect that these associations have had in opening great fields of credit for the present cotton market, and raising the basic market price.

Some of the difference is due to transportation charges. The association cotton has already arrived at a compress or shipping point when it is sold, and the independent cotton has
not. But this does not account for all the difference, and the amount
that must be charged to transportation charges is more than taken care
of by the difference in the grades on which the Texas association cotton
is accepted from the association, and
the grades which are given by buyers
to independent farmers.

There is no way to under-grade the Texas association's cotton. They do
their own grading. Local buyers,
even when they are honest, must give
themselves the benefit of the doubt
as to grade when dealing with the farmer.

The real place where the saving of five to fifteen dollars per bale comes
from, lies in the fact that the association has not only greatly reduced the cost of getting cotton to acceptable
markets, for the mills and the big exporters, but, by reason of its tremendous handling in big lots of absolutely correctly graded cotton, it is saving the mills and exporters who buy

from it, not only a vast amount of
expense, but all kinds of risk.

Taste is a matter of tobacco quality

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chester-hence of better taste) than in any

A TERRIFIC CRASH IN PRICES

Thousands of Dollars Worth of Merchandise Doomed. PRICES CUT TO THE VERY BONE

B. V. Collins' Life-Saving Sale

We admit we are caught with the goods—we bought heavy for every department. First because we anticipated a big business this fall, and second, because we were offered unusual values in different lines and felt that it was not only to our interest to buy when prices were right but that it was a duty we owed our customers to look after their interest as well as ours, and now that we are in the heart of the season and still have thousands of dollars worth of new merchandise of all kinds, we have decided to reduce stock. If price means anything to you, come to this sale expecting rare bargains. You won't be disappointed.

A REAL TREASURE TROVE IN WHICH WE STAND TO LOSE THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS.

A Blue Moon is said to be rare, and lightning is reputed to never strike twice in the same place. By those tokens it is only fair to say that an event like this happens along about twice in one's lifetime—once at B. V. COLLINS' SALE and the next not at all.

It is unique—it is rare—it is sensational—if therefore in reading the details you have to stop to catch your breath, we wish to assure you the enormous discrepancies between our Stock Reduction Prices and the real worth prices of the merchandise on sale are due to sheer accident, a freak of business.

Sale Opens Saturday, Dec. 17th.

BLANCHE BLAIR

THAT Tanlac is a wonderful medicine for delicate children is conclusively proven by the remarkable results accomplished in the cases of the three children shown in this picture.

Little Blanche Blair, of Providence, R. I., age 13, gained 10 pounds; Regina McCabe, et right, age 9, of Scranton, Pa., gained 15 pounds; Little Richard Leary, Jr., of Philadelphia who was very delicate, is now in fine, robust health. The statements made by their parents are as follows:

Mr. A. M. Blair, residing at 20 Ashwood street, Providence, R. I., said: "We are just so happy over the change Tanlac has made in our little girl that we can't do or say enough to show our appreciation. She had lost nearly 20 pounds in weight and looked so frail and weak that her friends had seen her drop off at any time. He had stomach trouble and many a time the gas pressed into his chest until his heart palpitated so I thought sure he couldn't breathe but a few more gasps. But Tanlac gave him back to us strong and well and we will praise it to our dying day."

The effect of Tanlac on the delicate stomachs of the young is one of the strongest evidences of its wholesomeness as well as its unusual merit. Although a powerful reconstructive, Tanlac contains no harmful ingredients, minerals or opiates which are so often found in other medicines. Being composed of the most beneficial roots and herbs known to science it is purely vegetable and can be taken by the most delicate children, and does not upset or injure the weakest or most delicate stomach. Tanlac is sold in Statesboro by W. H. Ellis Co., and all good druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

OLD RESIDENT GIVEN UP BY PHYSICIANS

"Given up by five doctors, my only hope an operation. I rebelled on cutting me open, as I am 75 years old. A neighbor advised trying May's Wonderful Remedy for stomach trouble. I got relief right away. I had not eaten for 10 days and was a yellow as a gold piece. I could have lived only a few days but for this medicine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

Sold by W. H. Ellis Co., and druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

SMOOTH SCHEME DIDN'T WORK

Statesman Just a Little Bit Too Officious in Wrapping Up That Marriage Present.

A local celebrity whose meanness was a by-word felt obliged to make a present to one of his lady friends on the occasion of her marriage. He entered a crackery shop for the purpose of making a purchase. Seeing a valuable statuette broken into a dozen pieces lying on the counter, he asked the price. The salesman said it was worthless, but he could have it for the cost of packing it in a box.

The man one directed it to be sent with his card to the lady, congratulating himself that she would imagine it was broken while on its way to her.

He was at her house when the box arrived, but the effect was hardly what he had expected. The tradesman had carefully wrapped each piece in a separate sheet of paper—London Tit-Bits.

NEW PHYSICIAN WAS WRONG

But Mr. De Wiggs Need Not Have Been Quite So Outspoken About the Matter.

"My dear," remarked Mrs. De Wiggs, at the breakfast table, one morning, "Doctor Le-wis says that hot water will cure all diseases."

"He does, does he?" said Mr. De Wiggs.

"Yes; and persons who use the treatment ought never be ill at all."

"Well, I don't believe it."

"You know how I am always ill!" "What you have never tried the hot-water cure?"

"What! never tried it?" ejaculated Dr. Wiggs, as he sidled towards the door. "Why, I've been in hot water ever since I married you!"

He got outside just in time to miss a teacup fired at him as a parting salute.

SPRAY TREES FROM AIRPLANE

Experiment Is Said to Have Had Good Measure of Success in Saving Trees.

The novel experiment of spraying a grove of trees from an airplane, the first ever attempted in the United States, was made on Aug. 4 over the farm of Harry A. Carver, near Troy, Ohio, to prevent ravages of worms which have twice practically defoliated his grove of 5,000 catalpa trees.

The plane, piloted by Lieut. John A. Macready, air service, and carrying E. J. Murphy, McClure field, designer, who constructed the outfit used to spray the arsenate of lead powder, flew within twenty or twenty-five feet of the tops of the trees, releasing the powder, which was carried by the wind and air currents from the ship's propeller into every part of the grove.

Treatment of trees in this manner saves much time and labor, as an airplane in a few minutes can do work which would require a number of men and many pump sprays several days.

London's Roman Well

The average flow of the Thames over Teddington weir during the last ten years has been 630,000,000 gallons a day. The average flow during this summer has been 35,000,000 gallons a day.

Where old friends have failed Londoners have turned with renewed faith to the ancient wells, which by some freak of underground nature remain full, cool and refreshing. Many of the big places in the city have their artesian wells of their own. Australia house in the Strand is independent of the water main; so, too, is the Bank of England. But the most curious private supply of all is the Roman bath in Strand lane, where David Copperfield was wont to take a plunge. It runs clear and cold as ever, as it did about 1,500 years ago, when it supplied the house of a noble Roman on the coast-growing banks of the Thames.

Dr. J. C. Compton, Radcliffe, Miss., writes: "I have prescribed your Mexican Mustang Liniment for Stomach Troubles, Colic, Bile, etc. It has been very successful. I think very highly of it."

OLD PILOT HAPPY

Nick Durand Has Big Store of Pleasant Memories.

His Recollections Cover Thirty-Three Years of Splendid Service on the Ohio River Ferries.

With the smoky-nosed old ferry tied up to await its doom, the planks of the rotting wharf drifting yearly out with the current, Nick Durand, old to sloping couples and for thirty-three years on one after another of the Ohio river craft, is left once more without a vessel.

At the time he shipped on the Shallowford in 1888, the ferry, with its steamboat, bound for Cincinnati with Mississippi molasses or noosing their way downstream to Vicksburg, loaded with butter and candle wicks. That was the time when the ferry boat piled to and fro with white docks and the tops of the wheelhouses painted blue, carrying every one from fuzzy-whiskered farmers to nurse girls in pink-dotted sunbonnets—for there was no bridge and the only crossing to be had was by way of the dock-apron and the gangplank.

Names of vessels scarcely remembered along the river slip from the pilot's tongue as he recounts tales gathered from thousands of trips he has made.

The Itabow, the Gray Eagle, the Druehand—in all that time, he boasts, he has been on the river with wind and fog and ice-clogged water, no serious accident has occurred.

With a chuckle, he tells of the couples that have made their way down the river from hand in hand and often coming aboard oblivious of passengers and straining deckhands—forgetting to pay their fare as they passed the little counter at the dock.

"For, yes, there's been a plenty of 'em," he smiles, wagging his chin. "You can tell 'em every time. They come down all eyes for each other, and none for anybody else. Usually they get off and get it over with us as soon as possible, and when they come back they are more loving than ever, then they stand over in a corner unrolling the certificate to look at. How many? I couldn't tell—I expect some of these are famous by now, but I could never keep track of any."

During the years that Nick Durand has shipped on Ohio river ferries, he has seen the river change from a heavily traveled thoroughfare to a mere alley way where an occasional paddle is seen. Before the building of the Big Four bridge at Louisville, the ferries came bobbing daily across at 15-minute intervals, but after its construction the farmers and wage girls drifted away, and for a time the river stanch of hull, but drowsy of rigging came hobbling by like a ragged old woman, shaggy-browed and with skirts tucked in.

But Durand will not be long without a boat; he has already been engaged as pilot of the Pilgrim, which was retained by the owners, and is now being fitted out for slow, lingering supplies days up the river.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

New Housing Idea in Rome. Rome will become a city of old apartments if the plans for the solution of the housing problem proposed by some Italian engineers are put in operation. The proposal is to build on the flat roofs of most of the buildings in Rome light houses of three and four stories.

The engineers have placed their ideas before Henry C. McClean, United States commercial attaché to the American embassy. They have asked that American capital become interested in the project. The material for the whole of the scheme, according to the engineers' suggestions, would come from America because of the adaptability of American light construction methods in the choice of materials and means of assembling.

Mr. McClean has succeeded in interesting several American business men in the project and other projects along the line of building construction in Rome.

Worse and Worse. Two Scotchmen who, though good friends, were poles apart on politics, were discussing the doings of their local representative. Said one: "He said he was a fine bird before election last year."

"Man," replied the other; "that was bribery."

"But," said the first speaker, "we could see that; they were there all the time we had to throw them away."

"Worse and worse," quoth his friend, "that was bribery and corruption."

Editor Bulloch Times, Statesboro, Ga.

Please allow me space for my letter to the club boys of Georgia.

I have just received the letter saying a boy from Norwood, Ga., Warren county, Joseph Sagsura, made 116-7 bushels and won the trip to Chicago this year.

I and my brother won the boys club scholarship by making 104 and 108 bushels. Our corn grew inside the corporate limits of Statesboro. We will be in the club next year. I won first prize last year and we came second and third this year. We have plenty of seed corn for sale. The scholarship will be held next August. Come, boys, and let's all try to win next year. I feel like we have one of the greatest farming counties in the state.

Truly yours, Leo and Clyde Mallard.

NOTICE.

Just a few lines to my customers and friends: I wish to state right here that we are doing all we can at all times to give the best service we can, but unless we have the help of our milk customers in cleaning and setting out bottles each night, it makes it very hard on us as it is expensive to have so much money invested in bottles and there is no one that realizes the expense of any business until they experience it.

In spite of the tight times of getting money, our expenses are getting higher, as bottles and caps have advanced, caps 50 per cent, bottles 25 per cent and gasoline about 20 per cent, although we are retailing milk every day, rain or shine, at the same price as before the World War.

Now, there is no business that can continue to run always losing money. Hoping you will all consider what we have said and help us in our expense, as it will benefit each of us.

Thanking you for your past patronage and soliciting more in the future. Yours truly,

AKINS DAIRY. (24nov17c)

With choice Georgia cane syrup selling at 20 cents per gallon in this community, our hearts go out in pity to those of other sections who are denied the benefits of this low price of one of our choicest food products.

S. H. Lichtenstein has a sister living in Butte, Montana. Christmas time brought to his mind the thought that is common to us all—to give pleasure to loved ones and thus find pleasure for ourselves. His thoughts turned to Georgia cane syrup as the sweetest possible expression, both practical and unique. He bought a couple of quarts of the choicest to be found. The cost to him was 25 cents prepared for shipment. The transportation charges were $1.75! Add the charges to the original cost of the syrup and find syrup costing $4.00 per gallon in Butte for Georgia cane syrup. It comes mighty high out there but we believe those Montana relatives of Mr. Lichtenstein will agree that it is well worth the price.

Very truly,

SPECIAL DINNER FOR ADVERTISING CLUB

MEMBERS WILL HAVE THEIR WIVES DINE WITH THEM THURSDAY EVENING.

The members of the Statesboro Advertising Club will depart from the routine order Thursday evening of next week when they will invite their wives and other lady relatives or friends to dine with them. The dinner will be at 8 o'clock and will be provided by J. O. B. Rimes, the chef.

The committee from the club having the arrangements in charge have not announced the place, but it will be either in the club room or at Rimes Cafe. It is expected that at least fifty club members with an equal number of lady attendants will be served.

Since the organization of the club two months ago, luncheons have been served to the club members each Monday at noon. These occasions, having proved most delightful and inspiring. The idea to celebrate the approaching holiday season with a departure from the selfish plan of eating alone, was brought up at the meeting of the club Monday and was readily adopted. The regular Monday lunch will be discontinued.

At the Thursday evening dinner every member will be expected to bring his wife, his sweetheart or some other lady.

The principals in the happy affair are Mr. Pat Reilly and Miss Annie Sherlock and Mr. John Sherlock and Miss Winnie Sherlock, all of whom are from Atlanta.

The wedding will be solemnized at 11 o'clock a. m. by Rev. Father O'Hara, of Augusta, and the public is cordially invited to witness the ceremony.

On Christmas day following the wedding a celebration will be held which has never been equalled for splendor in this vicinity. Friends of the contracting parties from afar and near are expected to unite in the celebration, and dinner is being prepared for hundreds from abroad. This occasion will be only for those who are invited, among whom are a number of local friends.

Some idea of the magnitude of the preparations have been obtained from the local bakers who prepared the orders for the occasion. Two monster pound cakes weighing a total of eighty pounds have started off with the delicacies, followed by dozens and dozens of smaller cakes, and pies, the pastry order amounting well up beyond the $500 mark. Two dozen turkeys, four dozen hens, 100 pounds of boiled ham, hundreds of pounds of barbecued meats are also on the menu. The order for the baking was procured by the White Lily Bakery in competition with bids from Savannah and other places. The order is believed to be the largest ever given for a similar occasion in this part of the state.

The hearts of many Confederate veterans were made glad by the arrival of the pension fund for Bulloch county which came in last Friday and is now being dispensed by the ordinary. This fund is only for the new pensioners who did not receive their quota early in the year, with $25 additional also for those who drew $100 at that time. Some of the old soldiers discounted their claims in the spring in anticipation of receiving $125, but when the funds were dispersed there was only $100 for each. The additional $25 now is going to those who hold the discounted orders and also to those old soldiers who drew direct from the ordinary.

I see in your paper of last week where Mr. J. I. Fordham stabbed two little brothers in self-defense.

The fact of the case is, the boys did not know anything about any trouble brewing until Mr. Fordham came out where they and my brother-in-law, Bird Wise, were packing up meat. He had a gun and told Wise to get out of the way as he was going to kill Finny and Willis (the boys he seriously stabbed later). Wise got out of the way but my sister Beulah cursed and said he would get them anyway. So he made it for another gun in the house. My older brother, Willis, who is just 17, ran and took the gun away from him and he began stabbing him. Willis then struck him over the head with the gun. By this time my mother arrived, not knowing the trouble and hoping to keep peace.

Mr. Fordham while he continued to stab him, the An took Willis off to the Statesboro jail. At this juncture my younger brother, who is small and about 16 years old, came to aid Willis and he jumped on him without any provocation and tried to make mince pie out of him.

Mr. Fordham has since made the remark that he wished both of the boys would die.

Very truly,
